Off-the-shelf fonts are powerfully convenient in the initial design phase, and sometimes end up being used with very few tweaks, even in what may look like highly crafted monogram logos (see our favorite monogram logos ever in our roundup). Beauty brand Armand Dupree uses Fidelio almost unchanged in its monogram logo.02. The original font family was developed by Caslon in the 1720s, and Caslon Graphique takes these basic proportions and pumps up the contrast. Well connected, two- and three-letter monograms in this font family work well and white from one color to round.06. Maelstrom Sans With its negative approach to contrasting stroke weight, Maelstrom has hidden visual effects yet to be discovered (Image credit: Klim Type Foundry)Price: From $50Download hereEver since the late 1990s, New Zealander Kris Sowersby has absolutely killed typos through his Klim Type Foundry. Maelstrom and Maelstrom Sans are fonts that radically reverse typographical patterns when it comes to contrast. Where a font like Didot would have a thin stroke, Maelstrom goes thick... And then some. It's not the only font to do this - see also Karloff Typotheque's negative variation - but it's probably the most extreme. Playing with Maelstrom will lead to a monogram logo that the world has never seen, so why not give it a shot?07.
